

I am filing a comment against deregulation, unless the FCC is sunset, so that there is no regulation of the air waves, in this way, anyone can set up a radio frequency and disseminate public info or propaganda. When the government chose to regulate the air, they took on a responsibility to ensure all citizens equal access to the airwaves. To allow a few to dominate such a medium of what was once free air, now infringes on the First Amendment and is a taking without due process. To be sure a few of the giants will tout, the free community service announcements, but are not all owners required to do some public service announcements? I would ask to consider going back to limiting a corporate entity's right to own stations to a reasonable number and limit the number in a reasonable demographic vicinity. one is fine, ten is fine, 20 is fine in a nation our size, but over 200 is way too many. Thank you very much for allowing me to comment. Respectfully, Rudy Vasquez
